

Modular Devices, a Portfolio Company of O2 Investment Partners, Partners with Flow Cleanrooms & Supply

As cleanroom standards and regulations continue to evolve, industries, especially within health sciences, are actively embracing advanced technologies and customized solutions to uphold elevated standards of cleanliness and control. This intensified emphasis on precision is indispensable not only for preserving the integrity of manufacturing processes in areas such as cell and gene therapy but also signifies a comprehensive industry dedication to meeting rigorous quality standards and prioritizing patient safety across the entirety of the production lifecycle.

Founded in 1987, Modular Devices (“Modular”) is a leading provider of mobile and modular medical imaging equipment lab solutions in the United States. With 250+ nationwide installations and 48 US states served, they have helped hundreds of leading hospitals and healthcare networks better serve their communities and quickly expand their diagnostic testing capabilities. Their success led them to find ways to expand their offerings, and ultimately identify Flow Cleanrooms & Supply as the ideal transaction partner to bolster their existing cleanroom manufacturing capabilities and begin offering additional cleanroom supplies to their clients.

Crosstree’s granular knowledge of the pharma services and diagnostic laboratory services sub-sectors helped Modular Devices evaluate a diverse set of potential strategic partners and identify Flow Cleanrooms & Supply as the ideal fit of complementary capabilities and offerings. The resulting partnership positions Modular Devices to navigate the changing landscape, offering a consolidated and comprehensive approach to cleanroom services, aligning with the evolving requirements and expectations within the cleanroom industry.
